Financial Services (Implementation of Legislation) Bill 2017-19 fallen through as UK Parliament prorogued

On 9 September, UK Parliament was prorogued, meaning that the Financial Services (Implementation of Legislation) Bill 2017-19 has fallen, as it had not received Royal Assent in the session in which it was introduced. The Bill was to allow HMT to implement EU financial services legislation that is currently in the pipeline for a period of two years after the UK leaves the EU, in the event of a no-deal Brexit. HMT are confident that major cliff-edge risks have been addressed through the SI onshoring process and therefore the powers within the ‘in-flight’ Bill are not as urgently required for the period immediately after exit day.

CMA review of Part 6 of Retail Banking Market Investigation Order 2017
On 12 September, the CMA announced its provisional findings in its review of Part 6 of the Retail Banking Market Investigation Order 2017. The CMA has provisionally concluded that the introduction of the New FCA Rules concerning consumer overdraft alerts represents a change of circumstance relevant to the Order. The introduction of the new FCA Rules would result in firms facing duplication in the regulatory requirements on them. This may result in confusion among providers and consumers and would impose unnecessary costs of compliance with two potentially conflicting regulatory regimes. The CMA’s provisional conclusion is that it is appropriate to vary the Order to avoid such duplication by removing Part 6. The CMA would require providers to send one final compliance report in 2020, and would retain the obligation on providers to report any breaches of Part 6 that come to light subsequent to its removal. The CMA are consulting on the provisional decision and draft Variation Order. The deadline for comments is 15 October.

ECJ Judgment: Consumer’s right to a reduction in the total cost of credit on early repayment of loan under Consumer Credit Directive (CCD)
On 11 September, the ECJ handed down its judgment in a case regarding the interpretation of Article 16(1) of the CCD. The question for the ECJ was whether Article 16(1) is to be interpreted as meaning that the right to a reduction in the total cost of the credit in the event of early repayment of that credit also includes costs which are not dependent on the duration of the contract. The ECJ commented that Article 3(g) of the CCD is the definition of ‘total cost of credit’, which includes all the costs, including interest, commissions, taxes and any other kind of fees which the consumer is required to pay in connection with the credit agreement and which are known to the creditor, except for notarial costs. As such, that definition does not contain any restriction relating to the duration of the credit agreement at issue. Therefore, the ECJ determined that Article 16(1) of the CCD must be interpreted as meaning that the right of the consumer to a reduction in the total... cost of the credit in the event of early repayment of the credit includes all the costs imposed on the consumer.

It changes the definition of a UK UCITS to, “a collective investment scheme which is authorised as a UK Undertaking for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities by the FCA under Part 17 of FSMA or under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Open Ended Investment Company) Regulations 2001 (SI 2001/1228) (as amended).”

IOSCO consultation paper on clock synchronisation

On 11 September, IOSCO published a consultation paper (CR04/19) on clock synchronisation used to timestamp recordable events with Coordinated Universal Time (UTC). The synchronisation of clocks used to timestamp a recordable event is important for establishing a clear audit trail of when trading events occur in the secondary markets. IOSCO has previously considered clock synchronisation in the context of trading venues – in 2013, recommendation 7 of its final report on “Technological Challenges to Effective Market Surveillance provided that market authorities should consider requiring trading venues and their participants to synchronise business clocks. Since the 2013 Report, there has been widespread adoption of UTC, and IOSCO believes that it may be appropriate to build on this recommendation by stipulating that where jurisdictions have introduced a synchronisation requirement for business clocks, they should be synchronised to UTC. The deadline for comments is 13 November.

ESMA publishes responses to its Consultation on cost of market data and consolidated tape

On 11 September, ESMA published responses to its consultation paper on MiFID II/MiFIR review report on the development in prices for pre- and post-trade data and on the consolidated tape for equity instruments. MiFID II/MiFIR provide for a number of review reports requiring the European Commission, after consulting ESMA, to present a report to the European Parliament and the Council on various provisions. This consultation paper was published on 12 July and covers the review provisions on the development in prices for pre- and post-trade transparency data from regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities, organised trading facilities, approved publication arrangements and consolidated tape providers as well as the functioning of the consolidated tape for equity instruments as provided for in Articles 90(1)(g) and 90(2) of MiFID II and Article 52(7) of MiFIR. Since these mandates are closely linked, ESMA decided to cover them in one single review report. The consultation closed on 6 September.

PSR response to discussion paper on data in the payments industry
On 10 September, the PSR published its response (RP19/1) to its discussion paper (DP18/1) on data in the payments industry. In the discussion paper, the PSR asked stakeholders for their views on: (i) data in the payments industry; (ii) payments data usage; (iii) end-users’ willingness to share data; (iv) access to scheme-wide datasets; and (v) realising the benefits of enhanced data. The PSR has concluded that the move to the new payments architecture (NPA) provides an opportunity to look at the feasibility of opening access to the data processed over the NPA’s central clearing and settlement layer, and building a data-sharing capability into the NPA. The PSR intends to work with Pay.UK to look at the feasibility of opening access to NPA scheme-wide data once it is in operation, including the possibility of first developing and publishing synthetic NPA scheme-wide data for industry use. In addition, RP19/1 highlights a number of areas where the industry needs to manage issues in payments data and clarifies some details from DP18/1.

EBA clarify the prudential treatment applicable to own funds instruments
On 9 September, the EBA announced its intention to provide clarity on the appropriate treatment of ‘legacy instruments’ at the end of 2021, when the benefits of the grandfathering period will expire. When the CRR entered into force, grandfathering provisions were introduced. In order to ensure institutions had sufficient time to meet the requirements set out by the new definition of own funds, certain capital instruments that, at that time, did not comply with the new definition of own funds were grandfathered for a transition period, with the objective of phasing them out from own funds. The beneficial treatment provided by the grandfathering provisions ends on 31 December 2021. The EBA intends to provide clarity on the appropriate end-treatment to ensure a high quality of capital for EU institutions and a consistent application of rules and practices and will also clarify the interaction with the new grandfathering provisions introduced by the recent banking package, where relevant for own funds instruments and eligible liabilities. The EBA aims to communicate on the end-treatment of the ‘legacy’ grandfathered instruments by mid-2020 so that institutions can adequately prepare for the end of the grandfathering period.
